CHAPTER 527.

An act relating to the acquisition of land, water or land and water within the State of California by the United States for migratory bird reservations.

[Approved by the Governor May 28, 1929. In effect August 14, 1929]

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The people of the State of California, through their legislative authority, do hereby accept the provisions and benefits of that certain act of congress known as the "Migratory bird conservation act," approved February 18, 1929, and do hereby consent to the acquisition by the United States by purchase, lease, gift or devise of such areas of land, water or land and water, within the State of California, as the United States or its properly constituted officers or agents may deem necessary for migratory bird reservations in carrying out the provisions of said act of congress; saving and reserving, however, to the State of California such full and complete jurisdiction and authority over all such areas as are not incompatible with the administration, maintenance, protection and control thereof by the United States under the terms of said act of congress, and saving and reserving to all persons within such areas all rights, privileges and immunities under the laws of the State of California in so far as the same are compatible with the administration, maintenance, protection and control of such areas by the United States under the terms of said act of congress.
